

LifEStYLe

14 | Monday, November 20, 2017 | Northern Nevada Business Weekly

COURTESY CARSON HIGH SCHOOL

For her senior project at Carson High School, Victoria Defilippi, center, helped Carson Middle School create the student organization HOSO to incentivize students to consider a career in health sciences through competitions, fundraising, and networking. Defilippi, a Career and Technical Education (CTE) student and HOSA state officer, is seen here with CTE instructors Kelly Gustafson, left, and Frank Sakelarios.

COURTESY NEVADA STATE BANK

Karen Sunderland, a financial services representative with Nevada State Bank in Winnemucca, adds to the Reno Rodeo Foundation Denim Drive barrel. The bank will be collecting new children's clothing — denim and otherwise — at its branches throughout the region through Dec. 31. The items collected will benefit abused and neglected infants, children and teens who have been rescued from unsafe homes.

Have an event that showcases the social and networking side