CHS has the most National Merit, Presidential Scholars to sign with UNR

Nevada Appeal staff report

The Carson City School District has announced Carson High School retains the most National Merit and Presidential Scholars committing to the University of Nevada, Reno. Fourteen seniors pledged to continue their education with the university during the Nevada Scholars Signing Day, held in the CHS library on May 22.

Quentin Owens, UNR's manager of scholar admissions, reported Carson High School had the most Presidential and National Merit Scholars from one high school to commit to UNR.

"We know that they didn't get here by themselves, so I would like to last but not least acknowledge parents, friends, teachers and family members of the students being recognized today," Owens said. "Because of you and your support, you are the driving force behind the success of these bright minds."

UNR's manager of admissions and recruitment Carolina Martinez and assistant vice provost of undergraduate education Derek Furukawa also were present to honor and commend the scholars who chose to sign with the university.

National Merit Scholar Megan Owens represents less than 1 percent of the U.S. graduating class. She will receive a $16,000 scholarship renewable for four years at UNR.

Presidential Scholars retain at least a 3.5 grade point average and earn an ACT score of at least 31 or SAT score of at least 1360. These students represent less than 1 percent of the graduating class in Nevada. They will receive an $8,000 scholarship renewable for four years.

The following are scholars who signed with UNR, as well as their intended majors.
